The New York Convention

International arbitration is on the rise – with the New York Convention as one of its prominent draft horses. With its 147 member states, the Convention facilitates transnational enforceability of awards around almost the entire globe. Conversely, the considerable growth of international arbitration has given the Convention an unpredicted meaning.

Need for Swift and Reliable Access

Given the New York Convention's global relevance, the potential users of the Convention need swift and reliable guidance as to how to apply it. This has never been more true with the Convention being tried before courts of nearly all countries worldwide without any binding precedent to rely on.

This Commentary ...

... annotates the Convention in a clear structure, article by article, prerequisite by prerequisite. The reader will quickly find how each requirement under the respective provision has been understood and how it should be interpreted. The work provides a concise and reasoned opinion and supplies the reader with a wealth of references, both from international case law and scholarly writings.

Target Group

Lawyers seeking (or defending against) recognition and enforcement of foreign arbitral awards worldwide, state court judges applying the Convention, in-house lawyers in large and/or multinational enterprises as well as academics and students including Vis Moot Court participants.

Editor and Authors

Dr Reinmar Wolff is an Assistant Professor at the University of Marburg and a practicing lawyer, as well as an experienced arbitrator. The authors are specialists in arbitration and related matters.

International arbitration has become the preferred dispute resolution mechanism in crossborder disputes. In the course of time, ad hoc arbitration, where the parties have to create their own rules and procedures, has increasingly been replaced by institutional arbitration where a specialised institution with a permanent organisation provides assistance and a set of practice-proven rules. The services and rules provided by the various institutions of arbitration differ. This book provides a comprehensive article-by-article commentary of rules of arbitration of 15 important arbitration institutions:

- AAA (American Arbitration Association)
- CIETAC (China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission)
- DIAC (Dubai International Arbitration Centre)

- DIS (German Institution of Arbitration)
- ICC (International Chamber of Commerce)
- ICSID (International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes)
- KLRCA (Kuala Lumpur Regional Centre for Arbitration)
- LCIA (The London Court of International Arbitration)
- MKAS (Moscow International Commercial Arbitration Court)
- SCC (Stockholm Chamber of Commerce)
- SIAC (Singapore International Arbitration Centre)
- Swiss Rules
- Uncitral Rules
- Vienna Rules
