General Hiring Criteria
WilmerHale hires the best law students and law clerks. We measure our candidates based on their academic records, the quality of their writing, their interpersonal skills, and their record of leadership and team building. In addition to academic success, we look for individuals whose character, intelligence, judgment, and experience will inspire their colleagues and clients to have confidence in their advice and representation. We have identified six competencies that outline what constitutes outstanding performance at WilmerHale – commitment, confidence, oral communication, problem solving, teamwork and writing – and these competencies are our focus in selecting and evaluating candidates. Finally, we seek to hire a diverse group of lawyers as we believe such diversity benefits both the firm and our clients.

Our history teaches us that there is no one path to success as a lawyer. Although many of our colleagues joined our firm right out of law school or a judicial clerkship, a significant number of our lawyers took career paths that led them—at one time or another—to rewarding experiences in government and public service, regulatory and law enforcement, academia and industry, corporate counsel offices or public interest. We strongly believe that such experiences are important foundations for excellence and success in private practice, and we support our lawyers who pursue opportunities outside the firm throughout their careers. We also welcome lawyers whose challenging practices and experiences at other leading law firms can help us expand our practice strengths.

We are fortunate to attract an intellectually stimulating and diverse group of people with a broad range of work and life experiences. Our lawyers flourish in a collegial environment that emphasizes teamwork, collaboration, and the spirited exchange of ideas in the pursuit of excellence. When you interview with us, we encourage you to get to know our firm by talking with as many of our colleagues as possible. We believe that you will soon realize that our firm provides attractive and rare opportunities for lawyers at any stage of their career.
