

Intellectual Property Associate and Senior Associate -
Intellectual Property, Boston, New York, Palo Alto,
Washington DC

We are interested in discussing possible associate and senior associate positions with lawyers who have two to six years of post-JD experience with an Electrical Engineering or Computer Science degree. Experience with software consulting or as a software engineer, software developer or IT system administrator is helpful. Also, familiarity with Unix/Linux.

Our Intellectual Property (IP) Department offers a broad platform and includes: post-grant proceedings and interferences and strategic IP advice in the United States and worldwide. The IP Department counsels clients on IP portfolio development, drafts and prosecutes patents, copyrights and trademarks, and conducts IP audits. The transactional side of the IP Department works with the Corporate Practice in our Transactional Department and assesses risks and opportunities associated with IP licensing, technology transfer, sponsored and collaborative research agreements, joint ventures, strategic alliance and similar matters. The IP Department also works with the Litigation/Controversy Department in IP litigation matters at the trial and appellate levels, including international arbitration and ITC proceedings.
