Keeping Current: Disclosure and Governance Developments

ABOUT THE BLOG

WilmerHale's corporate governance and disclosure team provides guidance to public companies and their boards, helping clients navigate the complex landscape of legal and business issues. Our team is well-versed in evolving SEC and stock exchange requirements, emerging governance and disclosure expectations, high-stakes issues such as issuer repurchases, insider trading and executive compensation, and responding to shareholder proposals and other investor communications. This blog offers valuable legal and practical insights on developments and trends impacting public companies. Contributors include members of the firm's Corporate Practice and our renowned securities enforcement and regulatory practices, who together have served as outside counsel to hundreds of public companies.
