

The Federalist Society National Intelligence Reform

JUNE 9, 2017

During the presidential campaign, there were calls for changes to the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI), a federal agency created in response to the events of 9/11 to ensure that the 17 organizations that make up the intelligence community act in a coordinated fashion. Following President Trump's inauguration, former Senator Dan Coats was appointed as the Director of National Intelligence (DNI). There has also been significant media coverage around the relationship between the intelligence community and the president. During this Teleforum, we'll be joined by intelligence experts to discuss the relationship between the President and the intelligence community, whether the ODNI is in need of reform, and the top priorities of the DNI Coats.

Partner Benjamin Powell will be a speaker during this Teleforum.
