

WilmerHale and RSM Event: State of the Technology Market

DECEMBER 7, 2017

The technology industry continues to grow across sectors and geographies, driving the local, national and global economies. The relentless pace of innovation, the evolving demands from customers, and the shifting sands of the capital markets present significant challenges and opportunities for private companies—whether they want to sell, go public or remain private—as well as public companies seeking a competitive advantage in a rapidly changing market.

On Thursday, December 7, WilmerHale and RSM co-hosted an interactive fireside chat with Jeff Hoffmeister, Head of East Coast Tech Banking at Morgan Stanley, to share insights on the state of the technology industry, including the following topics:

- The state of the private and public capital markets
- Key trends in the technology industry
- Impact of the rise of private equity and M&A
