

The 2018 Sedona Conference on International Patent Litigation: Aspirations Toward Attaining Effective Global IP Protection

FEBRUARY 26-27, 2018

The 2018 Sedona Conference on International Patent Litigation: Aspirations Toward Attaining Effective Global IP Protection will bring together a distinguished faculty of judges, government officials and counsel from around the world who will lead dialogue on topics identifying and explaining the emergence of alternatives to the traditional model of US District Court litigation, comparative approaches across different international patent regimes and the future for domestic enforcement of IP activities occurring abroad.

WilmerHale Partner Mark Selwyn will join the panel "Valuing and Enforcing SEPs Globally: Is There an International Consensus as to What "FRAND" is?", while Partner Anthony Trenton will speak on the panel "Getting Ready for the New Paradigm for European Patent Litigation: The Introduction of the Unified Patent Court."
