

Fourth Annual School of International Arbitration Alumni Conference

JUNE 15, 2018

HERBERT SMITH FREEHILLS LLP

WilmerHale Associate Nicolás Costábile spoke at the Fourth Annual School of International Arbitration Alumni Conference, held at Herbert Smith Freehills in London. The conference was titled “Containing the Beast: Can New Forms of Arbitration and the Implementation of New Technology Keep Arbitration Costs under Control and Lead to More Efficient Dispute Resolution?” Mr. Costábile was on a panel which discussed “Changing the Rules – Institutions’ Efforts to Reduce Time and Cost.” He considered the extent that institutions can contribute to the efficiency of the arbitration process, the limits faced by the institutions, and participated in a discussion about different proposals. Mr. Costábile also addressed the summary disposition procedures in the different institutional rules, including a comparison between them and potential due process issues with these types of procedures.
