

Life Sciences Companies and European Privacy Requirements—An Overview of Recent Guidance Regarding the GDPR

APRIL 2, 2019
WEBINAR

In this webinar, WilmerHale panelists will discuss recent developments in European data privacy that impact the life sciences industry and address how US-based and global life sciences organizations can navigate the rules established by the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

Topics will include the relevant activities of the European data protection authorities, in particular the new privacy guidance in preparation for the EU Clinical Trials Regulation (CTR) coming in 2020 that could significantly affect clinical trials in Europe and have broader implications for GDPR compliance and the protection of personal data in notification and consent forms and other areas.

Our speakers will also provide an overview of current enforcement priorities and the status of privacy-related litigation across the European Union.
