

Ernst & Young and WilmerHale Joint Presentation: Navigating the Minefield in the Economic Downturn

2009-01-15

The current recession and credit crisis are affecting every company. Many companies will need to work through new stresses on operating cash flows, liquidity, access to financing, and the impacts of reductions in force and restructuring. Longstanding corporate governance structures and management tools may become strained as internal controls, compliance systems and business processes that evolved in the years of economic expansion are tested in challenging and changing times.

In this joint presentation, experienced counsel, forensic accountants and auditors will draw on years of experience to map out the minefield of current risks and suggest practical and timely ways to address them.
