

Mid-Atlantic Bio: 2008 Conference

OCTOBER 22-24, 2008

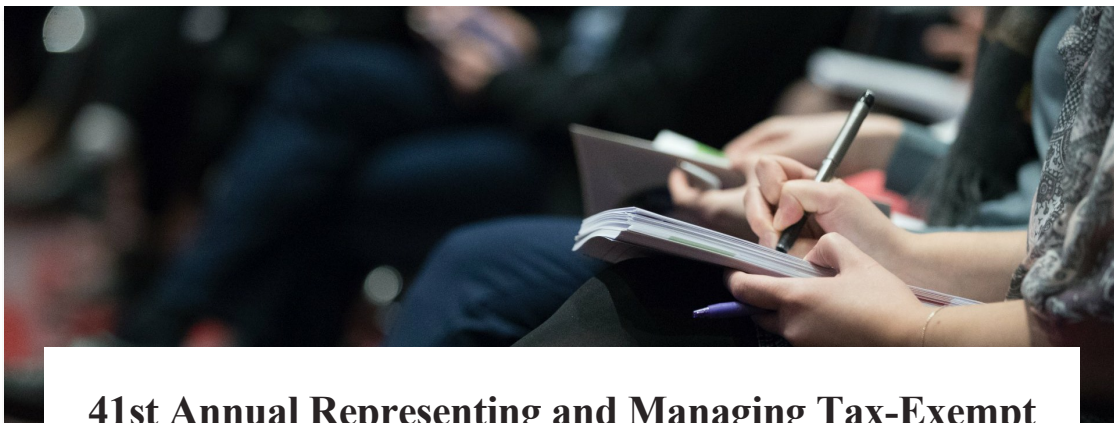

Over three days in October, conference attendees will hear from biotech industry leaders about innovations and advances in life sciences. Investors will have an opportunity to learn in depth about the initiatives of individual bioscience companies and research organizations, while exhibitors will have a chance to showcase their capabilities and offerings to industry stakeholders.

The conference program will feature keynote addresses by the industry's top leaders, panel discussions on emerging topics critical to the bioscience field, company presentations and significant opportunities to network and build business connections in a collegial environment.

WilmerHale is a sponsor of this event.
