

MIT: Start-up Clinic

2008-09-17

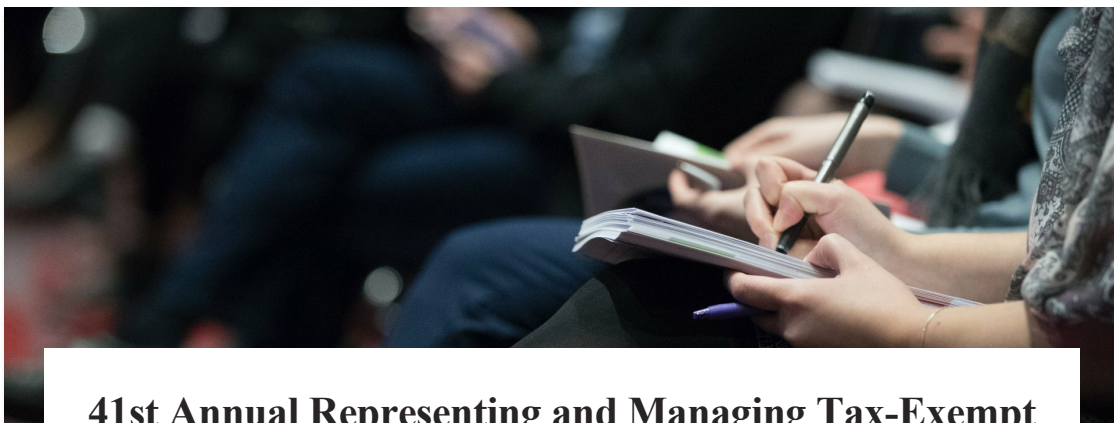

A Start-up Clinic at the MIT Enterprise Forum of Cambridge is a great way for attendees to test their readiness, learn exactly what investors are looking for and how they make decisions, and learn from live case presentations how to fine-tune plans and presentations. Through the Start-up Clinics, two pre-selected companies present their business plans and receive feedback from a panel of experts and the audience over an informal dinner.

The panel acts as a Board of Directors for an evening and provides feedback and potential solutions to challenges faced by early stage entrepreneurs based on their own professional experiences and expertise.

WilmerHale is a sponsor of this event.
