

New York Biotechnology Association 21st Annual Meeting

MAY 2-3, 2012

The New York Biotechnology Association is a not-for-profit trade association dedicated to the development and growth of New York State based biotechnology related industries and institutions, and to strengthening the competitiveness of New York State as a premier global location for biotechnology/biomedical research, education and industry.

Partner Joshua Fox will participate on a panel entitled "Preparing for an IPO: Is Now the Right Time to Consider?" during this annual meeting. The panel will explore the requirements to ready your company for an IPO, including board, legal, financial and accounting considerations, and walk you through the IPO process. Panel will also discuss market conditions and considerations as to when a company should contemplate a public offering.
