

Playing it Smart – Avoiding the Legal Pitfalls You Never Knew Existed

JUNE 26, 2013

Getting your company to the point of success can be hard work, but putting in place the right legal framework for your business doesn't have to be. If you misstep early, it could lead to greater costs later, making it more challenging to build a successful business. In this presentation, you'll hear how best to position your company for future growth and success.

Mick Bain and Peter Buckland from our Boston and Silicon Valley offices have worked extensively with emerging companies, many of whom have helped change the way we all work, think and live. They will be discussing current developments in the US and will be taking questions at the end of the presentation.
