

Stanford Law School: Directors' College 2008

JUNE 22-24, 2008

Directors' College, presented by Stanford Law School, is an intensive two-day program for directors and senior executives of publicly traded corporations. This year's program offered a blend of the latest information on critical issues facing every board today – Sarbanes-Oxley compliance, compensation, audit committee practices, litigation, D & O insurance coverage, and ethical concerns – combined with seasoned perspectives on best boardroom practices. Directors' College brings together leading CEOs, directors, jurists, scholars, and regulators for a rigorous examination of corporate governance concerns at a venue that has become the premiere program for director education.

WilmerHale partner Randall Lee spoke on a plenary session entitled, "Internal Investigations -- A New Board Competence."
