

The American Law Institute's 89th Annual Meeting

MAY 21-23, 2012

The American Law Institute (ALI) is an independent organization in the United States producing scholarly work to clarify, modernize, and otherwise improve the law. The Institute drafts, discusses, revises, and publishes restatements of the law, model statutes, and principles of law that are influential in the courts and legislatures, as well as in legal scholarship and education.

ALI will hold its 89th Annual Meeting on Monday, May 21 through Wednesday, May 23 at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington DC. The meeting combines important addresses and intellectual debate, and draws more than 600 judges, lawyers, and law professors from the United States and abroad.

Featured speakers include:

- John Paul Stevens, Associate Justice (retired), Supreme Court of the United States
- William F. Lee, Partner at WilmerHale and ALI Life Member, Class of 1987
- Nina Totenberg, Legal Affairs Correspondent
- Eric H. Holder, Jr., Attorney General of the United States
- Trevor Potter, Member of Caplin & Drysdale's Washington DC office and former commissioner and chairman of the Federal Election Commission

The full agenda, registration and other information about the meeting can be found on the ALI meeting website.
