

The Indus Entrepreneurs: 'Green Chips' - Semiconductor & Manufacturing Business Forum

2008-09-30

With the cost of energy spiraling and the environmental consciousness rising, everyone's attention is focused on "Green Technology." The semiconductor industry has responded to the challenge by focusing on technologies that conserve and generate energy using silicon technology. New start-ups with unique ideas are continuing to emerge frequently. The first part of the two part event presented by TiE Semiconductor and Manufacturing forum will feature some of the local companies focused on reducing power consumption while enabling faster and better technology. Attendees will hear from the innovative start-ups and entrepreneurs in the area and how they are working to make a difference in tomorrow's world.

WilmerHale is a sponsor of this event.
