

Xconomy Presents: What's Hot in Boston Healthtech

CAMBRIDGE, MA

Boston is arguably the world's most concentrated center of expertise in medicine, software and analytics, digital health, and biotechnology—making it the leader in healthcare more broadly. Now the region is forging a new era in which healthcare technology becomes deeply integrated into everything from hospitals and doctors' offices to the daily lives of consumers, whether at home or on the go.

This blending of data, computing, and personal analytics with genomics, biotechnology, and our mobile society is paving the way to more efficient and effective patient care and better therapies—and to the potential for people to make dramatic improvements in their overall health and longevity. Through keynote talks, live demos, interactive panels, and presentations from visionary startups, we will highlight how technology is transforming healthcare for the post-election era, and beyond.
