
WilmerHale Earns Law360 IP Group of the Year Title for the Fifth Year

FEBRUARY 12, 2016

WilmerHale's Intellectual Property and IP Litigation Practices have been recognized by Law360 as among the 2016 IP Practice Groups of the Year, marking the fifth year that the firm has received this recognition in the past six years.

Law360's profile on WilmerHale as a winning firm outlines some of the group's key wins from the previous year, which included a complete victory for GoDaddy.com in a cybersquatting suit involving the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, the representation of Intel in its win against Ericsson Inc. in a suit related to alleged standard essential patents, a Supreme Court victory on behalf of Marvel Entertainment, and many more.

The story also spotlights the firm's growing practice, with expansion taking place in the US and Europe. As Mark Selwyn, co-chair of WilmerHale's IP Litigation Group, told Law360, "We expect to continue to expand these international aspects of our practices and to be able to provide our clients with what we think is a truly integrated team of lawyers who work effectively across jurisdictions."

Read the full feature by Law360.