
WilmerHale Recognized as Technology Practice Group of the Year by Law360

FEBRUARY 28, 2019

For the third consecutive year, Law360 has recognized WilmerHale as a distinguished leader among competitor firms with its Technology Practice Group of the Year award. In a February 21, 2019 article featuring the firm, Law360 discusses WilmerHale's cross-practice successes, including counseling a Facebook executive in a series of high-profile hearings before the US Congress, a significant win for Apple following a seven-year litigation battle against Samsung, and advisor to Casa Systems in their initial public offering. The practice group is said to demonstrate a deep understanding of the business and regulatory issues driving the industry, with specialty areas including intellectual property litigation, securities, licensing, corporate law and taxation providing the most benefit to clients.