
Law360 Names WilmerHale a Technology Group of the Year for Second Consecutive Year

FEBRUARY 7, 2018

The firm has been recognized for the second consecutive year by Law360 as a Technology Practice Group of the Year for its knowledge and ability to serve the vast needs of today's most innovative technology companies. In the past year, WilmerHale has continued its noteworthy representations of major technology companies on a variety of critical issues spanning practice areas, crediting in large part a deep-rooted understanding of the business and regulatory issues driving the industry for these successes. Law360's profile of the firm calls out WilmerHale's high-value wins for technology giants and highlights the extensive team of lawyers across the firm whose focus is on technology as part of their work in a variety of areas including intellectual property litigation, securities, licensing, corporate law, taxation and more.