
Meet the Justice Department's New Antitrust Team

2009-05-27

Meet the Justice Department's New Antitrust Team

The Justice Department's Antitrust Division and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), now have in place most of their new senior leaders following the inauguration of President Obama. That includes, Christine Varney, the newly minted assistant attorney general and four deputy assistant attorney generals in the Antitrust Division.

To read more about the new antitrust lawyers please click on the client alert, Meet the New US Antitrust Leadership, written by WilmerHale partners Leon B. Greenfield, James W. Lowe and Thomas Mueller.