
DACA Revoked, What Should the US Do for Young Undocumented Immigrants?

SEPTEMBER 5, 2017

Partner Alejandro Mayorkas shares his reaction with PBS NewsHour about the Trump Administration's move to rescind the DACA program.

Watch the video interview with PBS NewsHour.

Excerpt: Almost 800,000 undocumented young people have been protected from deportation under the so-called "Dreamer" program, a pillar of the Obama Administration. What are the consequences of President Trump's decision to end DACA? PBS NewsHour's Judy Woodruff gets two views from Alejandro Mayorkas, former director of USCIS, and Jessica Vaughan of the Center for Immigration Studies.