ARTHUR.COVIELLO@WILMERHALE.COM

Arthur Coviello focuses his practice on intellectual property litigation and strategic intellectual property counseling. He has litigated cases involving a wide variety of technologies, including microprocessors, content delivery networks, streaming media, e-commerce platforms, artificial intelligence, computer and network security, smartphones, smartphone cover glass, consumer electronics, financial services, WiFi technologies, therapeutic antibodies, and medical devices. He has litigated in district courts throughout the country, the US Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, the Patent Trial and Appeal Board of the US Patent and Trademark Office, and the US Supreme Court.

Mr. Coviello has experience litigating disputes over patents, trademarks, trade secrets, technology licenses and antitrust issues. He has been a core member of many successful trial and appellate teams at the firm. He has argued before district courts throughout the country, as well as in Inter Partes Review proceedings.

Mr. Coviello also advises many large and emerging technology companies on intellectual property strategy, including patent portfolio development and freedom-to-operate analyses.

Before joining the firm, Mr. Coviello clerked for the Honorable Arthur J. Gajarsa of the US Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. From 2002 to 2005, Mr. Coviello served as Senator John Kerry's legislative correspondent for economic policy.
