BRITTANY.LLEWELLYN@WILMERHALE.COM

Brittany Llewellyn focuses her practice on complex investigation and litigation matters across a number of practice areas, including a particular focus on anti-discrimination matters.

Ms. Llewellyn has experience in a variety of government investigations, including investigations by the US Department of Justice and the Securities and Exchange Commission, as well as litigating class action lawsuits in federal court, conducting sensitive internal reviews into a variety of matters, including workplace culture issues, and advising clients regarding anti-discrimination matters implicating compliance with federal and state discrimination laws. Ms. Llewellyn previously worked as a summer associate at WilmerHale and at a law firm in Boston, where she assisted with commercial litigation matters. Prior to law school, she worked as an investigative analyst at the Manhattan District Attorney's Office. At Harvard Law School, Ms. Llewellyn participated in the Harvard Law Review, Criminal Justice Institute and the Harvard Immigration & Refugee Clinic.
