Deep-rooted experience, country-specific knowledge and offices in key business and regulatory centers

Our full-service law firm brings together the foremost lawyers from a broad spectrum of practices to achieve important results for clients in the Americas. In this time of changing priorities, new regulations, emerging threats and expanding opportunities, companies demand the support of advisors with the experience, skill and judgment to navigate this challenging terrain. Our lawyers possess an intimate knowledge of how government and commerce work, and a keen understanding of the regulatory implications of clients' business transactions. Many of our lawyers have served in senior government positions in the United States and in multilateral organizations, and have in-house experience in a range of industries. We are well known to government agencies and in various court systems, and offer preemptive advice and an indispensable business perspective. We have played a leading role in landmark cases across regions, and continue to expand our capabilities to address clients' most critical needs.
