
Manufacturing

Heavily influenced by world economy and global politics, representing the manufacturing industry requires exceptional insight into and a thorough understanding of worldwide corporate and trade regulations, policies, and procedures.

From business advice to navigating the merger clearance process, from advice with regard to customs laws to litigating intellectual property issues, we are an established leader at the cutting edge of policy, law and economic analysis in the United States and abroad.

The firm has a proven track record in representing clients, including industrial manufacturers, chemical manufacturers, and oil and gas producers, in a broad range of highly technical, complex and high-stakes matters. Our special strength lies in our transatlantic experience, with lawyers located in the US and Europe, and significant experience in China. The firm has represented or advised clients from around the globe before administrative, judicial and legislative bodies in the United States and more than a dozen other countries, as well as in proceedings under the World Trade Organization (WTO), North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and World Customs Organization.