
WilmerHale DiscoverySolutions

Delivering industry-leading integrated discovery services.

WilmerHale is an established leader in discovery. Recognizing data proliferation and complexity, spiraling costs and client demands for greater efficiencies, we launched WilmerHale Discovery Solutions (WHDS) in 2010. Through WHDS, we provide scalable and flexible discovery services that are efficient, defensible, delivered reliably and cost-effectively and provided through a partnership focused on client success and the highest quality. Ours is a complete and fully integrated discovery solution. WHDS is composed of more than 100 attorneys and technical litigation support professionals, geographically distributed across firm offices in the United States and the United Kingdom, who focus on discovery and data analysis. These attorneys and staff work with clients and other members of our legal teams across all practices to understand the discovery objectives of each representation and assess the implications for managing our clients' data throughout the matter lifecycle. Many of our discovery practitioners have more than 15 years' experience handling every aspect of our clients' discovery needs, from consulting on protected data considerations for international matters to recommending processing specifications for novel data types.
